

NEXT SESSION OF CONGRESS TO BE EXCITING

Expected To Be Marked By All Manner of Factional and Partisan Rancor.

WILL BE FULL OF POLITICS

Many Important Subjects of Legislation Will Come Before It For Consideration.

By JOHN SNURE.

With the opening of Congress only about a month and a half away, signs multiply that the forthcoming session will be an unusually animated, contentious and unassuming one.

That it will be a long session, jammed full of politics, marked by all manner of factional and partisan rancor and bitterness, controversial in the extreme, is deemed certain by every one who is at all in touch with conditions.

Big Program For It.

Here are the subjects which will be most prominent:

- National defense.
- Government ownership of merchant marine.
- Tariff.
- Rural credits.
- Philippine independence.
- Seamen's law and efforts to amend and repeal it.
- Child labor.
- Appropriations in general and revenue.
- Closure in the Senate.
- Prohibition and woman suffrage amendments.
- Prohibition for the District of Columbia.
- Treaties, including the Colombian, Nicaraguan, and Haitian.

Consideration of such an array of problems as these on their merits would take no end of time and talk. But the coming session will be held with a Presidential and Congressional campaign of great importance abroad. Consequently, politics and partisanship will color the proceedings and a vast mass of material will be made a part of the record which is intended for the consideration of Congress makes it clear that a tremendous volume of oratory from the lips of the lawmakers is to be poured forth into the Record, and is to go to the country.

Defense Is Foremost.

Consideration of such an array of problems as these on their merits would take no end of time and talk. But the coming session will be held with a Presidential and Congressional campaign of great importance abroad. Consequently, politics and partisanship will color the proceedings and a vast mass of material will be made a part of the record which is intended for the consideration of Congress makes it clear that a tremendous volume of oratory from the lips of the lawmakers is to be poured forth into the Record, and is to go to the country.

It looks now as if the national defense issue will overshadow all others, provided, of course, no new international complications arise, which will force new issues to the front. The Administration is going to the President and his advisers believe the country will back the Administration. In going to the country, the President and his advisers believe they will kill two birds with one stone. That is, they believe they will largely nullify the Bryan opposition to preparedness. And they believe they will make it impossible for the Republicans to obstruct the passage of the bill. But most of them, it is believed, will be involved in the last and the most important proposed legislation to enhance the national defense.

If the Administration view is the true one, the voice of Government ownership of merchant marine is stronger than last session with the public. The fight over this bill has been going on for some time, and a good many astute observers predict Congress, beginning the first Monday in December, will go on continuous session until March 1, 1916.

Any one of the subjects listed already may be expected to arouse long and strenuous debate. But there are, apart from matters of probable legislation, numerous questions full of the dynamite of controversy.

For instance, there is the controversy with Germany over submarines, now seemingly en route to a settlement, and the mooted question of putting an embargo on arms. Nobody dreams that an embargo will be put on arms—along with other war material—unless war should be threatened. But there will be a storm of discussion about it. Likewise, the treatment of American commerce by the allies will provoke no end of speech-making, much of it conscious, it is made for home consumption pure and simple.

Mexico has too long been a bone of contention.

Soft, Curly, Wavy Hair Now Easy to Have

Beautiful, fluffy, natural-looking curls or waves, without the use of the ruthless curling iron, are now possible for every woman. Yes, not only possible, but very easily acquired over night, and with benefit to the life and health of the hair. It is only necessary to apply a little liquid salerone before retiring, leaving a clean tooth brush in the hair, drawing it down the full length of the tresses from root to tip. In the morning the hair will have a most delightful curliness and lustre, without the least suggestion of grease or stickiness, and will be quite controllable, no matter how the hair is done up.

As liquid salerone is procurable at any drug store and as a few ounces of it will last for months, no woman need put up with that flat, lank, dank appearance of the hair which gives such an unwholesome look of plainness to most faces.—Adv.

Electric Warships Flow; Daniels Solves Riddle

If sailing vessels sail, and if steamships steam, what will the new electrically propelled battleships do?

This was the question which today "stumped" a score of naval officers. Secretary Daniels solved the deep sea conundrum by opining the electric-driven ships will "flow."

"Electrical currents 'flow,'" said Mr. Daniels, "so I suppose, supplying electricity to nautical terms, the new ships also will 'flow.'" contention to be dropped. Critics of the Administration policy on Mexico will growl and grumble over it. Democrats, out to defend the Administration, will hail the Wilson policy as the acme of diplomatic wisdom.

Peculiarly will the coming session be one in which appropriations matters will be much taken into account. The Administration has to face extraordinary methods of raising revenue or a bond issue, and it seems likely it will extend the war tax, keep the tariff on sugar, and issue bonds. This will be much more than a billion-dollar Congress. Even though Republicans vote for the preparedness bills, they will not neglect to hold up to the country the enormous total of the appropriations and make shrewd use of the economy issue. It looks, so far as the Democrats are concerned, as if there is nothing for them to do but take the bull by the horns and squarely meet the issue, as the national defense must be dealt with and a merchant marine must be had, and that the country is willing to foot the bills, heavy as they will be.

Suffrage Committee Meets

The executive committee of the District of Columbia Suffrage League is to meet tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock at the west study room of the Public Library. A report of the outdoor meetings conducted during the summer is to be made at this meeting and arrangements will be made for the election of officers.

D. C. NEWSPAPER MAN MARRIES IN ROCKVILLE

John Martin "Puts One Over" On Friends and Weds Miss Bertha A. Reinburg.

Accompanied by the bride's mother and two friends, John Martin, a Washington newspaper man, and Miss Bertha A. Reinburg, motored to Rockville last night and were married by the Rev. C. Barnes, pastor of the Christian Church. The ceremony was performed in the parsonage at 10 p. m.

Returning to Washington, the wedding party, which included Mrs. Catherine Reinburg, the bride's mother; Miss Virginia Roberts, who assisted as bridesmaid; and Wilbur V. Leech, in whose automobile they were conveyed to Rockville, had a wedding dinner at the New Elbert.

Mr. Martin, who "sevens" the District building for the Evening Star, arranged in advance for the issuance of the license upon their arrival in Rockville, and the wedding dinner that followed also was arranged for in advance. But no hint to his friends of the approaching nuptials was given until the announcement was made this morning from 1304 I. street northwest, the Reinburg home, where Mr. and Mrs. Martin will live until their apartment in the Cavendish, Eighteenth street and Columbia road, is ready for occupancy.

$1,000 Verdict Against Capital Traction Co.

A jury in Circuit Court No. 1 before Justice Gould today rendered a verdict for $1,000 in favor of the plaintiff in the case of Florence Mayhew against the Capital Traction Company.

On behalf of the plaintiff, who is an infant, it is claimed that she was injured on September 10, 1911, being struck by one of the defendant's cars on Second street northeast, between California avenue and E street. It is claimed that the child had sustained injuries to her head and suffered cuts and bruises on her body.

The plaintiff was represented by Attorneys Wilton J. Lambert and R. H. Yeaman, and the defendant by Attorney George T. Dunlop.
